The Janesville Daily Gazette.

VOLUME 24 | Entered at the Post Office at Janesville, Wis., as second-class matter. | JANESVILLE, WISCONSIN, FRIDAY, JANUARY 7, 1881. | Published Every Evening Except Sunday, at $7 a Year. | NUMBER 258

The next question is, will the candidates in the fifty different cabinets selected for General Garfield, accept their positions?

The bar'l should not be elected Senator in Wisconsin. It can't represent the true interests of the people, while brains and manhood can.

Another man lost to fame has been brought to the surface and placed where the public can gaze at him. Mr. Nathan Goff, of West Virginia, has been appointed secretary of the navy.

When Cadet Whittaker is tried by the court martial, it would be well to give West Point the benefit of some of the trial. That institution should have been put on trial some time ago.

Though I have been in the Senate eighteen years and wanted to go there eighteen more, I am not a politician. Neither am I a beggarly knight jumping about on foot.—The Epistle of Timothy.

Rumor has it that General Garfield will appoint Don Cameron secretary of war. We think wisdom will dictate that Don Cameron should not go in the cabinet, and we have no idea that General Garfield thinks of giving him the appointment.

The opposition to Keyes in this city is so hard up for ammunition, that it has hired a Democrat to go through the county getting names to a petition against the election of Mr. Keyes. We presume they would call this honorable business and true statesmanship.

Judge David Davis got tired of the fence, and fell over into the Democratic party. Strange, but since last fall he seems to have got tired of the Democratic party, and now like the prodigal son, he wants to return to his old political home. There are a few prominent ones in the same boat with Judge Davis.

The Wisconsin Legislature should follow the example of the Michigan Legislature in the selection of a United States Senator. In Michigan, as in Wisconsin, the contest was between brains and money. In the former State brains won, and now let the Republicans in Wisconsin hope that this may be the result in this State.

A clergyman in Philadelphia has taken the Governor of New York to task for sentencing two men to be hanged on Thursday instead of Friday. He claims that inasmuch as the Saviour was crucified on Friday, all executions should be performed on that day. He wants the hanging on that day to stand as collateral evidence that on Friday Christ died for the redemption of the world.

The Alexandrian obelisk, or Cleopatria's needle, is now uncovered in Central Park, New York. The obelisk is a monument of rare impressiveness. The suns of two thousand years have shone upon it, and that it should be transferred from the land of the ancient gods to the United States, should be a source of pride to all who take an interest in ancient art and primitive literature.

The adjutant-general of the United States has furnished some valuable information in regard to the number of men called by the President during the late civil war, and the number actually furnished. The quota, from all the States and Territories was 2,773,670, and the number of men furnished was 2,772,408. The quota of Wisconsin was 109,080, and the number of men furnished was 92,327. New York gave to the service of the government nearly half a million men.

As was stated in the Gazette a few days ago, the population of the United States will not vary more than 5,000 from 50,152,550. It is now admitted that the number of representatives under the census will not be less than 293, nor more than 325. The basis of population to representation under the new apportionment for 293 representatives is 168,498 for 300 representatives, 164,566 for 310 representatives, 159,278, and for 315 representatives 151,907.

Judge Cassoday is winning golden opinions at Madison as an associate justice of the supreme court. He has already written some important and elaborate decisions which stamp him as a thorough lawyer and an able judge. He is a close student, an indefatigable worker, and a judge of whom the State may well feel proud. With all that, his thorough gentlemanly qualities, well balanced mind, and deep common sense, give him a strong personal influence with the bar and the people of the State.

The following table showing the number of members of the House of Representatives for each apportionment since 1789, will be of general interest at the present time:

	Whole No. Reps.	Ratio.
1789	65	30,000
1793	105	33,000
1803	141	33,000
1813	181	35,000
1823	213	40,000
1833	240	47,700
1843	223	70,680
1853	237	93,423
1863	243	127,381
1873	293	131,425

The ratio of population is also given for each of the decades. At every apportionment since 1793, the number of members of the House has been increased, except in 1813, when it was reduced from 240 to 223.

The Milwaukee Republican and News, though not supporting Mr. Keyes for the senatorship, comes to his defense when charged by a writer in the Chicago Times that he was recreant to the party in 1860 and 1866. Mr. Keyes never bolted the Republican party in his life, but the men who make their unjust charges against him have been guilty of bolting the party more than once. It is refreshing that Mr. Rublee, though opposed to Mr. Keyes for the senatorship, has the courage and the manliness to nail this lie at once. This is the kind of journalism that commands respect, and that will win success. All the charges in the Chicago Times are equally as wicked and malicious as the one which the Republican and News pronounces false.

In the Maine senatorial contest there are two prominent candidates—Eugene Hale and William Pitt Frye. Both are young men of brilliant parts. They have won national reputations by the prominent part they have taken in the proceedings in Congress. They are ready debaters, are men of commanding influence, and are shining lights of the Republican party. Both are entitled to all the honor the people of Maine can confer upon them. It seldom happens that two young men so thoroughly accomplished, so stalwart in ability, and so deserving of senatorial honors, are contestants in the same State. We hope that the senatorial mantle will fall on that bright, noble, courageous young man—Eugene Hale—the son-in-law of the lamented Zack Chandler. He is an honor to the politics of our country and would be a brilliant light in the Senate of the United States.

The Gazette stated some time ago that South Carolina had taken steps to inaugurate temperance reform. The bill which came before the Legislature has passed both branches, and in a measure may do much to lessen the drunkenness in that State. The law provides that no intoxicating liquors of any kind shall be sold in that State outside of the incorporated cities, towns, and villages, and in these a license must be procured from the State which will cost $100. The money is paid into the county treasury and shall be used for county purposes. In Charleston, the largest city in the State, the license goes into the city treasury, and the law provides that the city and State license for that particular city, shall not be less than $200. This will weed out a great many doggeries and will be the means of making an important reduction in the cases of drunkenness and in the number of crimes.

THE CONDITION OF THE STATE PRISON.

The annual report of directors and warden of the Wisconsin State prison is nearly ready for distribution. It is a very full report, and gives some interesting items with which the people should become acquainted. The whole number of convicts confined on the first of October, was 309, and the number received during the past year was 121. There were discharged during the year 153. The total number confined in the prison on the 30th of September, 1880, was 277, which is a less number than for several years.

The terms for which the prisoners have been sentenced are as follows:

During life	5
Twenty-five years	1
Twenty years	4
Ten years	1
Eight years	1
Seven years	2
Six years	2
Five years	15
Four years	9
Three years	7
Two years and six months	1
Two years	25
One year and six months	8
One year and three months	3
One year and two months	2
One year	33
Ten months	1
Six months

Financially, the prison is in good condition, so that under the present system of management, it is no burden to the State. The receipts from all sources during the past year are given as follows:

Balance	$11,090 44
Convict labor	27,873 40
Collections and sales	8,582 46
Miscellaneous sources	2,142 52
	$49,688 82

To show the public where the money goes we will give the disbursements for the past fiscal year, which can not fail to be of some interest to all those who desire to keep well informed on the cost of our State institutions. The out-goes of the treasury are thus given:

Newspapers, amusements, stationery, and advertising	$ 405 55
Drugs and medicines	286 68
Live stock, forage, etc	700 76
Fuel, lights and laundry	4,644 23
House and cell furnishing	1,048 31
Tailor and shoe shops	2,421 51
Tobacco	152 05
General repairs	732 82
Convicts discharged	661 00
Salaries and wages	15,296 71
Subsistence	11,214 73
Indebtedness prior to October 1, 1879	473 89
Miscellaneous purposes	3,038 24
	$44,082 88
Balance October 1, 1880	5,605 94
	$49,688 82

As we have said many times heretofore, the State prison was at one time a burden to the State. Under the commission system it was constantly loaded with a debt, and each year brought around a bill asking from $18,000 to $30,000 from the Legislature for the prison. These things have passed away. The burden has been lifted off the State. The institution is manged on the basis of economy and common sense. The directors and warden say that unless some unforseen embarrassments occur to prevent sales and collections, they will not need any appropriation for the current fiscal year.

Escaped from the Toils.

John Bacon, LaPorte, Indiana, writes: "Hurrah for Spring Blossom;" it's all you recommended it to be. My dyspepsia has all vanished; why don't you advertise it? What allowance will you make if I take a dozen bottles, so that I could oblige my friends occasionally?" Price: 50 cents, trial bottles 10 cents. Sold by A. J. Roberts and Croft & Sherer.

LONDON, Jan. 7.—A large steamer sunk on Goodwin's Sands with all on board.

FOURTEEN PERISHED.

Special to the Gazette.

DOVER, N. H., Jan. 7.—The county poor house burned this morning and fourteen inmates perished.

AN ICE RIOT.

Special to the Gazette.

NEW YORK, Jan. 7—The militia was called out to-day to go to Verplank's Point to suppress a riot among the ice men. Four men were killed and three wounded.

MAINE SENATORSHIP.

AUGUSTA, Me., January 6.—At 11 to-night the senatorial situation suddenly changed by a committee of Frye's friends waiting upon Hale and unconditionally withdrawing Frye's name from the canvass and tendering their votes in caucus to Hale.

This insures a unanimous nomination in the Republican caucus and election of Hale to the United States Senatorship.

SENATOR BRUCE.

A Suggestion That the Colored Senator Be Called Into the Cabinet.

WASHINGTON, D. C., January 6.—The suggestion that Senator Bruce, of Mississippi, be called into the cabinet of Garfield, has been suggested to the President-elect, and he thinks well of it, but is reported as saying that there is plenty of time for reflection. It has been represented to Senator Bruce that certain parties have told General Garfield that his (Bruce's) appointment to the cabinet would make a row in the South and injure the Republican party there, as a step toward social equality. Senator Bruce thinks this is very unmanly warfare; that he has been long in public life, and never yet went anywhere he was not invited. He wishes a distinction drawn between equality before the law and social equality. It is a singular fact, and illustrates the high standing of Senator Bruce, that a majority of the Mississippi delegation say they would prefer Senator Bruce in the cabinet to any white Republican from that State. Senator Lamar is reported as saying that the white people of his State would rather see Bruce in the cabinet than any white Republican in all Mississippi. Bruce stands well and is on good terms with all the Democrats in the de legation.

A HORRIBLE ACCIDENT.

A Boiler Explodes and Kills Several Persons.

NEW YORK, January 7—A terrible accident is reported to have occurred at Newark, N. J., at an early hour this morning. The Babcock Smelting Works are located in that city, and it appears that, from some cause not at present known, the immense boiler of the works exploded with terrific force. The shock was felt for a long distance, the citizens of Newark who were aroused by the concussion soon flocked to the scene of disaster. The damage to the building was very great, the ruins being scattered in every direction. At this hour it is impossible to state how many employes were in the building at the time of the dreadful calamity, but it is stated for a certainty that five or six workmen were killed outright, and as many more wounded.

WILLIS' BILL

To Punish and Discourage Mormonism.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—Mr. Willis, of Michigan, of the House judiciary committee, has the Mormon bill in charge that proposes to punish and discourage Mormonism by denying the right to vote to any who practice polygamy. He says they hope to get it reported simply to this congress, in order to place it before the country, and the next congress will see the matter dealt with in some way that shall wipe out this disgrace. The Democratic members of the committee who kept it back last session are not so much interested now. Proctor Knott had a scheme, it is understood, to admit Utah as a State if the Democrats carried the election, as he expected they would, and there would have been two more Democratic senators to repair the losses that were looked for where States would elect Republican Legislatures. With this in view, it would not do to allow his own committee to do anything that would be hostile to such a plan, and the bill was kept back. Now there is no such incentive to protect the Mormons, and they find that their friends of last year have deserted them.

ESCAPES THE GALLOWS.

The Husband Murderer, Mrs. Brown, Gets Imprisonment for Life.

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 6—At 3 o'clock this afternoon the jury in the Brown murder case came into court, after an absence of twenty-three hours, and returned a verdict of imprisonment for life. While the clerk read the verdict Mrs. Foster clasped one of the hands of Mrs. Brown, while the latter, placing a handkerchief to her face, burst into a silent fit of tears. On the first ballot the jury stood four for death, seven for imprisonment, and one for acquittal under indictment. Very soon, however, the one joined the seven, but the death fellows held out to the last ballot this afternoon, finally changing to imprisonment rather than permitting a disagreement, and thus put the county to further expense. The verdict is very satisfactory, and the opinion is freely expressed that Wade's sentence will now be commuted.

MAINE.

AUGUSTA, Jan. 6.—The sub-committee on the gubernatorial vote are ready to report to the full committee to-morrow. They find the following report on a straight vote without any irregularity: Davis, 73,130; Plaisted, 73,367; Nye, 306; Joy, 124; scattering, 555. The number of misnomers is 133. Quite a number of irregular returns not signed by the clerk, etc., are not reckoned in the above, but will be reported to the full committee. A conference is to be held to-morrow between the two wings of the Fusion party in the endeavor to harmonize the future political action.

SUICIDE.

LINCOLN, Neb., Jan., 6—This city was shocked this evening over the suicide of William O. Coons, a former well-known and wealthy citizen of Chicago and Fond du Lac, Wis. He suicided at the Metropolitan hotel by taking morphine. Domestic trouble was the cause. It seems his divorced wife is now the wife of W. W. Charles, formerly of Chicago, now proprietor of the Oriental hotel of this city. Deceased has been somewhat dissipated since his arrival in this city, and has solicited pecuniary aid from Charles. Being denied, he laid down and died. The coroner's inquest will take place to-morrow morning. Upon his person were found $5 and two letters from his sister, dated Germantown, O.

FRIDAY, JANUARY 7

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE CITY

In the Sick-Room.

MOST people are at times called to do duty in the sick-room. It has been my fortune for the last fortnight to write, read and work by the side of a helpless friend, while not far off, separated only by a hall, lies another person, sick of a fever. As I write, however, the Great Healer has written signs of returning health on each pallid cheek, and we and our invalids are making up our minds to have a good time. Bulletins pass hourly; little delicacies are sent from one to the other, and weak voices occasionally bridge the chasm of silence that has been so painful.

Yesterday invalid No. 2 paid a short visit to No. 1, and it was very comical to see them both laugh at each other's altered appearance. The next occasion was a visit from No. 1, and the matter was made pleasant by sundry baskets of fruit paraded on every thing that could hold them; goblets of jelly, and all the nice things sent by considerate friends to tempt the fastidious palate. There is no need of making the sick-room a place of gloom, where every body walks on tiptoe, and whispers, and nods, and lugubrious faces hint at possible death and the grave. I have noticed in some places where I have called a parade of feeling that was simply disgusting. To attempt to walk tiptoe on creaking shoes makes a noise more or less diabolical, while the contortions necessary to such an unnatural gait distress even the least sensitive patient. If you can not have good easy slippers, or shoes that make no noise at all, you had better walk in your stocking-feet, for sick persons notice more than you imagine, and though they may say nothing, yet they are distressed at any thing out of the usual course. It is better not to talk at all than to whisper. A low voice, well modulated, never distresses the most sensitive patient, while the hissing consequent on the effort to be heard, or to be distinct in whispering, is very unpleasant. Besides, the patient is often suspicious and distressed for fear something is being told that he or she is not to hear—something relating to their danger, perhaps, and it worries them sometimes into danger.

A person should cultivate good taste and delicacy of perception, no less than a good touch. Some persons rattle the dishes while washing them in such a way as to set the healthiest nerves on edge. Now it is very possible to wash and wipe dishes noiselessly, and it is sheer indifference to the comfort of others to strike dish on dish, when a careful touch would obviate all unpleasant sounds. So in a sick-room, one who has practiced the gentle and refined way of doing very common things has an experience that will make her most welcome in the presence of suffering. Refinement will never allow soil of any kind in the sick-room. It has a dish of cold water to receive the spoons as soon as they are used, and the more tasteful and elegant that dish, the better. It sets unsightly bottles out of sight, and keeps medicine and nourishment apart. It garnishes the plain dishes, and makes them look appetizing; it keeps every thing spotlessly clean; it has a bright and cheerful word for the patient at all times, and a way of touching and soothing the irritable nerves that very few paid nurses ever attain to.

It is to daughters and mothers I am writing now. Some time theirs must be the half-painful, half-pleasant task to minister to the sick whom they love. All are not born nurses, but all may learn to be neat, quick, gentle, efficient. Let me introduce you to two sick-rooms. A young girl blusters in, bringing some friend. The invalid is languid, and not inclined to talk, but the thoughtless nurse appeals to him to say if this or that is so. On the bureau there is a mass of bottles. In finding the medicine, she searches noisily for the right one, and knocks down two or three during the operation. This, of course, is distressing. Then the spoon is hunted for, and not being in its holder of clean water, may be nice, and may be not. The sugar has no cover, and is full of flies; she has not taken the pains to wrap the ice carefully in flannel, so that the point of a pin would split it, and consequently it has all melted away. The pillows are uncomfortably placed. Instead of deftly turning and shaking them, almost without the patient's knowledge, she allows the aching head to rest upon a lump or a stone, and because he does not cry out, thinks there is no need of a change.

But step into this room. Every thing is cheerful with the light of order and cleanliness. The best is made of every little ornament. There is nothing constrained or cheerless. The young nurse talks naturally, has her basket of wools or sewing near by—there is no parade of sickness. The patient always looks comfortable, is always spoken to with a smile, is always sure of the most tender and kindly consideration. Though she is very young, scarcely more than a school-girl, father never could be easy with any one else to wait upon him.

One other little matter I will speak of here—the often cleansing of the hands where there is illness, that they may be always cool and soft and white. There are many other minor things which I have not space to write about now.—Cor. Youth's Companion.

THE god of English social life next in dignity to Mammon is propriety. Now, propriety rightly worshiped is a very good god; his very rites are sweetness, order, decency, and in their practice they involve their consideration for others which is the highest form of morality, and even of piety. But the British Philistine (and all England is more or less given over to Philistinism, which invades the very social regions in which it is most dreaded and decried) makes propriety a Moloch, before whom he prostrates himself, and before whom he often makes his very children sacrifice some of the beauty of their youthful lives. The highest social aim, the greatest social law, to this sort of Englishman is to do the correct thing. Having attained this he feels that he has absolved himself of every social duty and clothed his soul in a panoply of proof. Whether the correct thing be really the right thing he does not know, does not seek to know. That so it has been, and that so it is, are for him both logic and religion. In his mouth the greatest reproach is "unprecedented;" the mere statement of the fact that an act has not been done before, that a word has not been spoken before, being to him its condemnation. Wherefore he lives his life surrounded by dead, shriveled forms, eyeless, brainless, bloodless, whose only voice is from the grave of a dead past. If he breaks away from this oppression he is likely to run into extremes which violate all decency, all decorum, all propriety. Freed from his accustomed restraint he is apt to add a grossness to vice which makes it more hideous, if not more harmful.—Atlantic Monthly.

The Dark Side of London Life.

On every corner are little street-stands of eatables, very coarse, indigestible eatables, such as little plates of boiled "winks," picked from the shell, boiled with reckless abundance of salt, and eaten with vinegar, at a penny per plate; the crows and gulls could hardly relish this food as the being but little lower than the angel prepares it for himself; they would prefer it fresh. The penny-a-bowl soup kitchens are full of customers; bare, unpainted tables, ingrained by long absorption of grease and grime; heavy bowls, plentifully nicked, and iron spoons. The eel, kidney-pie and stew kitchens are full. A penny for a pie, pitched at you piping hot from a tin box, with an underdone grease and gravy-permeated undercrust, with top crust and bottom crust rank enough to finish the career of a dozen delicate, fashionable stomachs. Look at the eel-stew counter; childhood, barely able to lift its bowl to the top, is there getting its pennyworth for some drunken mother; decrepid, feeble-looking men lay down the clumsy copper coin of the realm in greedy expectancy of something to fill those long-empty stomachs. They have, after hours of endeavor, earned the penny you tossed them for holding the cab door, or sweeping the crossing, or begging in the guise of a match-seller. You are to-night a Cræsus among these people. A pound sterling to them is a fortune. A pound would mean an infinite succession of these luxurious meals. A pound with nine-tenths of them would upset their mental balance altogether; it would mean half a dozen drinks, a half-dozen treats, insensibility, robbery, and in half an hour the harpies, but little lower than angels in these rotten gowns, would be quarreling over the eighteen shillings' plunder. Look down those dark passages leading out of Drury Lane. Step down this one. It is Parker Street. The sidewalk is scarce wide enough for two. More slatterns in corners and in hallways. There is the sensation of grime in the air, grime on the walls, the windows, the people. It seems the accumulated grime of generations. The woman in a doorway is also one of her Majesty's subjects. I glance into her room. A very slim, squalid bed, a chair, a table, a fire in the grate; over the mantelpiece a highly-colored print—"The Return of the Prodigal Son." No fatted calves are ever killed for the prodigal daughters. They are seldom rescued from the diet of husks. The prodigal daughter's return is not a fatal day for calves. This woman in the doorway is another prodigal daughter. She is not old. She is not yet ugly, though beer and gin have marked her for their own. She has commenced to be invitingly loquacious when out of the fog looms the black helmet and stiff-belted form of the British policeman. He addresses her: "Now, see here, if I catch you out of your door again I'll run you in." Not a word from her. She slinks back into her den. All along the narrow street, as far as I can peer through the mixture of fog, darkness and gas-glare, I behold these squalid women—her Majesty's unreturnable, unwelcomed prodigal daughters—slinking into their doorways as the representative of British law and respectability approaches.—C. W. Stoddard, in San Francisco Chronicle

Chinese Wills.

WHEN a Chinamen feels that his term of years may be brought at any moment to a close, and when he is the fortunate possessor of more or less real or personal property which he will be compelled to leave behind him upon earth, he usually makes a will. This, however, is by no means invariably the case; neither are testamentary documents so common as in England or America. On the other hand, many Chinese of all states and ages die leaving no written instructions behind them, and without having had time to deliver a nuncupative or verbal expression of their last wishes. The Chinaman very frequently divides his estate as fairly as he can into equal portions for his sons; and then, fearing lest one should be aggrieved by any deficiency or defect in the part allotted to him as compared with those given to the others, he will arrange that his sons shall draw lots among themselves as to the ultimate proprietorship of each. The drawing is all important; it is sometimes registered at the local magistrate's yamen, and a record is always kept in the family, each son taking a copy, upon which document any or either of the brothers may subsequently sue or be sued. We now come to the will proper—a document drawn up by a Chinese testator with just as much care and formality as in any country in the world. It is occasionally written out by the testator himself, but more usually by an amanuensis, who signs in such capacity to the left of the testator's signature, the witnesses, never less than two, signing in a similar manner to the right. Of this will copies are made and signed, like the original, for distribution among the various legatees; though it is not uncommon, if the property is extensive, and the will of considerable length, to have copies made for the legatees containing only that part which refers to the particular legacy of each, prefaced by the semi-formal exordium with which every Chinese will begins. A wealthy Chinaman recently died, leaving his property to be divided among his five sons in certain proportions. Here is a literal translation of the will, all names, of course, being suppressed.

"I, ————, the maker of this will, reflecting that after a youth spent in traveling over the waves at home and abroad, washed by the rain and combed by the wind, I have at length, with much scheming, gathered together some store of property in houses and land, all of which was acquired with the object of insuring a competency to my wife and children; and now reflecting further that old age is coming upon me, and that I am already in the evening of my days, and that my tenure of life is insecure, I accordingly would wish to see an equal distribution of my property amongst you, my sons, before my death, in order that there may be no unseemly contentions between you when I am dead and gone. I would have you to carry on your father's reputation, that prosperity may result to you therefrom; and I call upon you not to disobey the commandments I am now about to lay upon you.

"To my son ———— I hereby give and bequeath," etc.

"To my son —— I hereby give and bequeath," etc.

Of the introduction to this will, which was carefully signed and dated, five copies were drawn out, and to each was added one of the clauses beginning "To my son ——," etc. These were distributed among the co-heirs, the complete will remaining in the family archives, the common possession of all. There is no such thing in China as a will made in secret and hidden away to be discovered after the testator's death. The whole ceremony is conducted with the usual Chinese publicity from beginning to end; probate ensues as a matter of course, and almost invariably without opposition of any kind whatever.—Harper's Weekly.

How to Die on the Stage.

"That's what you're after," said G. A. Graver, the courteous stage manager of Haverly's Brooklyn theater to a Star reporter. "How do actors die on the stage? In various ways, I should say; from a great many causes, or from no causes at all. In shooting scenes young and inexperienced actors will fall before you see the flash or hear the report of the pistol shot. To stand without flinching while a pistol is aimed at you is not very easy. In our early days we fired cork balls at each other to overcome our nervousness. Shooting accidents are numerous on the stage. I need not remind you of the latest fatal case in Baltimore. Once we took six muskets from the property-room and found six slugs in every one of them.

"As to myself, I have suffered all manners of death, figuratively, in the past twenty-five years. This is the first season in that long period that I am not acting. There were heavy pieces in which I had to die every night for weeks. I do not approve of Salvini's death scenes, nor of the hospital atmosphere on the stage. Death from corrosive poison is preceded by excruciating pains. Are they a fit subject for illustration? W. Goodall personated at Barnum's Museum a drunkard suffering from delirium tremens. He was seized with spasms, and was carried off the stage, utterly exhausted. His representation of his celebrated character of 'Edward Middleton, the Drunkard,' was too realistic and repulsive to the audience.

"Consumption on the stage has not spread much on this side of the Atlantic. Clara Morris has her peculiar cough as Lady of the Camelias. Matilda Heron surpassed her in that character. In 'Jack Sheppard' occurrs a scene where a cloth is thrown over a man's head and two ruffians club him to death. The cloth was getting saturated with blood. The spectators objected to so brutal an exhibition, and now the bludgeons do their work off the stage. Of a dozen men shot in a play, each one will act and die differently.

"At the old Park Theatre, under Mrs. Conway's management, I swung from the limb of a tree on the stage and prevented the commission of a murder. The villain in the piece had inveigled a girl into a mountain glen, where he had already dug a grave for her. I hear her cries for help while standing on the top of cliff twenty feet high, and grasping the limb of a tree I swing down, rescue the girl, and, with a terrific blow of the spade, kill the villain. At the rehearsal I discovered a defective spot in the sapling, which was to enable the rescuer to make his descent.

"I pointed out the weak part to the carpenter, who entered into an argument and claimed the hickory was strong enough to hold an elephant. To put it to a test, I ran up the cliff and swung down. The sapling did break at the point I had indicated, and I fell down, but landed safely on my feet. Next time another sapling snapped, and Collin Stuart broke his arm. Death by hanging is a frequent occurrence on the stage. I was led to the gallows many times, for instance, in the 'Carpenter of Rouen,' and in 'Jessie Brown,' by Boucicault."—New York Sun.

Her eyes were red, her nose was blue,
"Sweet subject for embracing;"
Her breath was anything but sweet,
And all through her tight lacing.
She wisely took a friend's advice.
And soon Spring Blosson tried;
Left off tight lacing, her breath now is sweet,
And she is satisfied.

Wanted to Learn Something.

Yesterday afternoon one of the Park police at Union Square was approached by a country boy, who, in a tremulous voice, asked where he could get something to eat and a place to sleep, remarking that he was very hungry and tired, having walked a long way. The policeman directed him to the rooms of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, and thither the lad slowly made his way. There he was met by Officer Lundberg, of whom he asked the same questions that he had of the policeman. The officer led the boy to an inner room and placed him near the stove. "And now," said he, "I want you to tell me your name, and where you came from and how you got to the city, for you look like a country boy."

The little fellow said, "My name is Joseph Blowers, and I am thirteen years of age. I can't read or write, but I know how to spell my name and a few little words. I was born somewhere up by the White Mountains. My mother died eight years ago and my father died two years ago. Before he died he gave me away to a farmer named Jacob Voorhis, who lives at Galena, at the foot of the White Mountains. I had to work about the farm and had to take care of seven cows and milk them morning and evening. Mr. Voorhis never sent me to school, and as I wanted to learn something I made up my mind to go away and see if I could not do something else so that I could go to school. So I left Mr. Voorhis, and I've walked nearly all the way from the White Mountains to New York, which I'd heard was a big city. Sometimes I've managed to get a ride on the way. It was a long tramp here, but I wanted to go to school and I heard they had big schools here. I want to get something to do to pay my way, so that I can learn something."

As the society have frequent applications of this sort from boys, many of whom have turned out to be swindlers, Officer Lundberg took the boy out with him to see whether he knew the city. After walking a few blocks Officer Lundberg suddenly stepped into a doorway, when Joseph, missing his companion, ran up and down in great alarm, looking in every direction for his guide. He was about to sit down upon a stoop and cry when Officer Lundberg approached, much to the lad's delight. "He is a bright, manly little fellow," said Mr. Lundberg to our reporter today, and "we will put him in some institution where he can receive preliminary instruction and be cared for until a home can be found for him."—*N. DR. PRICE'S REPUTATION!

Has been acquired by candid, honest dealing and years of successful practice.

My practice, not one of experiment, but founded on the laws of Nature, with years of experience and evidence to sustain it, does not tear down, make sick to make well; no harsh treatment, no trifling, no flattering. We know the cause and the remedy needed; no guess work, but knowledge gained by years of experience in the treatment of Chronic Diseases exclusively; no encouragement without a prospect. Candid in our opinions, reasonable in our charges, claim not to know everything or cure everybody, but do lay claim to reason and common sense. We invite the sick, no matter what their ailment, to call and investigate before they abandon hope, make interrogations and decide for yourselves; it will cost nothing as consultation is free. TESTIMONIALS FROM THE PEOPLE.

JUDGE BUCHANAN, Lawyer, Toledo, O., says: "One of Prof. Guilmette's French Kidney Pads cured me of Lumbago in three weeks' time. My case had been given up by the best Doctors as incurable. During all this time I suffered untold agony and paid out large sums of money.

GEORGE VETTER, J. P., Toledo, O., says: "I suffered for three years with Sciatica and Kidney Disease, and often had to go about on crutches. I was entirely and permanently cured after wearing Prof. Guilmette's French Kidney Pad four weeks."

SQUIRE N. C. SCOTT, Sylvania, O., writes: "I have been a great sufferer for 15 years with Bright's Disease of the Kidneys. For weeks at a time was unable to get out of bed; took barrels of medicine, but they gave me only temporary relief. I wore two of Prof. Guilmette's Kidney Pads six weeks, and I now know I am entirely cured."

MRS. HELLEN JEROME, Toledo, O., says: "For years I have been confined, a great part of the time to my bed, with Lucorrhœa and female weakness. I wore one of Guilmette's Kidney Pads and was cured in one month."

H. B. GREEN, Wholesale Grocer, Findlay, O., writes: "I suffered for 25 years with lame back and in three weeks was permanently cured by wearing one of Prof. Guilmette's Kidney Pads."

B. F. KEESLING, M. D., Druggist, Logansport, Ind., when sending in an order for Kidney Pads, writes: "I wore one of the first ones we had and I received more benefit from it than anything I ever used. In fact the Pads give better general satisfaction than any Kidney remedy we ever sold."

RAY & SHOEMAKER, Druggists, Hannibal, Mo., "We are working up a lively trade in your Pads, and are hearing of good results from them every day."

DELICATE FEMALES

prostrated by irregular habits, the abuse of nature and mental or physical over-exertion, find their greatest relief in the use of DAY'S KIDNEY PAD, which strengthens, invigorates and restores the vigor of health.

PAIN IN THE BACK.

We say positively, and without fear of contradiction, that DAY'S KIDNEY PADS is the only certain and permanent cure for every form of this prevalent and distressing complaint.

YOUNG MEN

suffering from nervous and physical debility, loss of memory, or vitality impaired by the errors of youth or too close application to work, may be restored and manhood regained.

Avoid all kidney medicines which are taken into the system by way of the stomach; it is an old treatment, well tried, and proven inefficient, though sometimes effecting apparent cures of one complaint they sow the seeds of more troublesome and permanent disorders. The price of our PAD brings it within the reach of all, and it will annually save many times its cost in doctors' bills, taxing boards and platters, which at best give but temporary relief. It can be used without fear or harm, and with certainty of a permanent cure. For sale by druggists generally, or sent by mail free of postage on receipt of the price. Regular Pad, $2.00; Children's, $1.50; Special (extra size), $3.00. Our Book, "How a Life was Saved," giving the history of this new discovery and a large record of most remarkable cures sent free. Write for it. Address, DAY KIDNEY PAD Co., Toledo, O.

CAUTION. Owing to the many worthless Kidney Pads now seeking a sale on our reputation, we deem it wise the afflicted to warn them. Ask for DAY'S KIDNEY PAD, and take no other.

Letters Oddly Lost and Found.

In conversation lately with a reporter of the Evening Post, the veteran Charles Forrester, Sr., who has passed his life in the New York Post-office, recalled some curious instances of the loss and recovery of valuable letters, whose temporary disappearance was due to pure accident, but was attributed at the time to theft by some person in the mail service.

In 1833 a letter which contained money was received at the post-office in this city addressed to Samuel G. Starr, No. 205 Pearl Street. It was given with others to a carrier, but Mr. Starr reported soon after that the letter had not been delivered. An investigation was made, but without any satisfactory result. The next year, during the season of "spring cleaning," the mystery was solved. The oilcloth in the hallway of No. 205 Pearl Street was taken up, and on the floor, close to the front door, was found the letter which had so long been missing. The place had been closed when visited by the carrier, and in thrusting the letter under the door he had pushed it beneath the floor covering.

In the autumn of 1838 a young man named Alfred Wright was appointed a clerk in the New York Post-office on the recommendation of the Postmaster of Hartford, Conn., who had discharged him from his own office the preceding spring on suspicion of dishonesty. The suspicion arose from the unaccountable disappearance of some money letters from the box rented by an insurance company. When the cool weather of autumn caused the President of this company again to wear the light overcoat which he had laid aside at the end of spring, he found these letters in one of the pockets. Then he remembered that he must have taken them from the office one Sunday morning on his way to church, afterward forgetting them and putting away his overcoat for the season.

Before the use of checks and drafts was as common as it is at present it was a customary piece of caution in sending considerable sums by mail to tear bank notes in halves and forward the pieces separately. Half of a $500 bill was sent in 1839 or 1840 in a letter which reached the New York Post-office addressed to "William Warner, Fulton," while on the line beneath this inscription was written "Market, 29." The letter was intended to reach stall No. 29, Fulton Market, but, owing to the peculiar form of the address, it was delivered at No. 29 Market Street, where, by a strange coincidence, there also lived a William Warner. The mistake was discovered the next day, and the carrier in this case, who was Mr. Forrester himself, hastened up to No. 29 Market Street, where he learned that Mr. Warner was to sail that morning for New Orleans, and had already gone aboard the Tarolinta, the vessel bound for that port. Hurrying down town again, Mr. Forrester found that the Tarolinta was still lying out in the North River, and hired a boat to take him alongside. Mr. Warner immediately gave up the letter and contents, by which he had been much puzzled, and the carrier returned to shore with a light heart.—N. Y. Evening Post.

THE strange ceremony of plowing aroung a village in order to drive away the cattle plague recently took place in one of the villages of Russia. The Russky Courier describes it thus: "In the month of March the cattle plague broke out in the village of Ozersk, in the province of Kaluga. In a few days thirteen cows died, and the peasants were panic stricken. After warm discussions, it was decided to drive out the plague after the manner of our forefathers in similar emergencies—that is, by plowing around the village. On March 10, at midnight, all the women of the village assembled at a spot, to which were brought the things needed for that half pagan, half Christian ceremony, to-wit, a holy image, a plow, harness, a bag of sand, and a pail of tar. A strong young woman was harnessed to the plow, and, with the assistance of two other girls, proceeded to pull it along. A young girl carrying the holy image (ikona) headed the procession; she was followed by an old woman with the sand bag, who threw the sand right and left, the plowing party trying to cover the sand in plowing, while the woman with the tar pail besprinkled the soil with tar. A crowd of girls and women followed, each carrying some article with which to make a noise, scythes, tin cans, iron pans, boilers, basins, pokers, and other utensils. Though the noise made was indescribable, and the women's yelling and shouting incessant, they were ineffectual to frighten off the plague spirit, for its ravages in that village are undiminished."

WM. H. PULLEN, Fowlerville, Mich., says: I have not rested better for months than I did last night. The "Only Lung Pad" has helped me wonderfully—See Adv.

Poultry on the Farm.

To keep poultry on the farm is economical. When a farmer keeps a herd of cows, a flock of sheep, together with horses and hogs, there is always room on the farm for a good stock of poultry. Even when all the cows, sheep and hogs are kept that there is room for, there is still room for poultry. It is almost a necessity for every family to keep a pig, in order that the refuse and house slops may be utilized; it is in the same sense that poultry are valuable—they are the scavengers of the farm. There is a class of fowls that require very much room on the farm. Still, they do not require room and attendance, and they may be kept in such a shiftless manner that they will be found unprofitable. All kinds of poultry may be kept, provided they may have the run of the barnyard; but they must be kept in such a manner as to prevent their ravages in garden and grain fields. Turkeys, ducks, geese and hens may be kept all summer without using one square yard of room available for any other purpose. Care should be observed, in providing for ducks and geese, that they may not have the privilege—for such they will deem it—of fouling the water required for the stock, or making themselves a nuisance in any other manner. Young chickens and turkeys will require some care for the first few weeks of their existence; after that they may be trusted to care for themselves to a great extent. Poultry may be raised and a flock of hens kept, producing eggs all summer without the outlay of one dollar for grain. Sour milk from the dairy is very good for young poultry, and there are many other articles of refuse on the farm that can be profitably used in the maintenance of fowls. Now, why is it that farmers do not indulge in the luxuries of fresh eggs daily during summer and also of fresh poultry more than they do? I know that it is too often the case that all the eggs produced on the farm are sold for groceries and other small items of household expenses. I know that too often all the poultry are sold to the butcher, and that sometimes the farmer does not taste a fresh egg or a chicken during the entire year. This is unwise. With a little care sufficient eggs can be produced not only to make a profitable item in the farmer's income, but also to enable him to gratify his taste for fresh eggs as well. Poultry may be produced as cheaply as any other class of meat.—Boston Transcript.

Years of Suffering.

Mrs. Barnhart, corner Pratt and Broadway, has been a sufferer for twelve years through Rheumatism, and has tried every remedy she could hear of, but received no benefit, until recommended to try the Eclectric Oil; she says she cannot express the satisfaction she feels at having her pain entirely removed and her rheumatism cured.

Home Rule.

DAPPER little Jerome Stevens was walking on Twelfth Street the other evening.

The balmy breeze blew over him,
He snuffed the lilies blooming,
The tulips whispered in his ear:
"Old man, the spring is booming!"

He was feeling grateful that he lived in this fain land of Michigan when the wail of a child was heard in the land, followed by the blows of a peach-tree limb. The sounds came from a cottage and as the blows grew faster and the wails louder, Jerome entered the yard and walked around to the kitchen door. The motive power of the gad was a stocky, red-faced mother; the motive power of the wails was a boy of ten, who had just returned from a fishing excursion in which he didn't get a nibble.

With a swish! swash! swish!
In a good old motherly way
The gad went up and the gad came down
As it did in our grandmother's day,

Till the boy did wish
That bait and fish
Were tossed in a heap together
At the bottom of Biscay Bay.

"'Sposen you was a boy!" said Mr. Stevens as he loomed up before the pair in the darkness.

"You go way!" the woman called.

"Madam, I can not witness such brutality unmoved. I have children of my own, and I punish by moral restraint. If you—"

That's as far as he got on that speech. She jumped over a bed of pansies and tackled him to win. She jammed him through a rose-bush, banged him over the plant, and rolled him over the young tiger-lilies, and an officer arrested him as he broke down the fence and fell in a heap on the walk.

"What have you got to say to all this?" asked his Honor, as the story was finished.

"Your Honor, if I live to be a million years old, and if I see a million mothers tanning the jackets of a million boys, I shall never, never, have a word to say about it."

"Did you get that scratch on your nose and that torn coat in the fracas?"

"I did."

"Well, I think I'll let you go. I guess you had been drinking, and I guess your experience will be a lesson to you. Mind your own business, and perhaps you'll flesh up and grow taller."—Detroit Free Press.

Young men suffering from Weakness, Nervousness, Despondency, Loss of Memory, etc., are thoroughly and permanently cured by DAY'S KIDNEY PAD.

WHAT a strange provision of nature it is which produces from corruption and filth fields of waving wheat and acres of golden grain. The waste and offal of a great city, if not dissipated, can be made to add a thousand-fold to the fruitfulness of the farm. Our great cities pour their filth into the rivers to pollute the streams and kill the fish. The city of Paris some time since turned its sewage upon the Plain Gennevilliers. The residents did not like it. The odors were not those of "Araby the Blest." But this foul stream added amazingly to the productiveness of the district; and land which could not be sold for $75 per acre rose in value to over $700 per acre. Truly it has been said that "dirt is matter out of place." What millions and millions are wasted in all our large cities. Were it possible to collect the sewage and spread it upon the waste places, it would add hundreds of millions to the wealth of the world.

OUR girls of the period have an amount of energy and ambition that would insure a brilliant future to male relatives possessed of as much. For instance, the foremost society girls of Washington, the Evartses, for example, "no matter how late their engagements may have detained them the previous night," get up early in the morning and study art, music, languages, or whatever branch their tastes may lead to cultivate, and the same is equally true of young ladies of whose daily lives our leaders have a more accurate information than that promulgated by the Washington correspondent. The word "society" girl is, in this latter half of the nineteenth century, a title honorable to the holder.—Chicago Journal.

THE operation of Bismarck's tyrannical press laws is freshly illustrated by the experience of Herr Fusangel, editor of the Neue Bayerische Volksblatt, who has just suffered two months' imprisonment in a fortress for printing an article censuring the Government in moderate terms, and who is now publishing a series of articles on his life in jail. He was first confined in a cell without ventilation, dimly lighted by a heavily grated window. His bed was a strawsack covered with two woolen blankets. Neither sheets nor pillows were furnished him. There was a stove in the cell, which was heated now and then for the purpose of suffocating him, he thought. Much of the time he had no fire, and then he nearly froze to death. His food was soup and chunks of meat, which he had to eat without knife or fork. Books and writing materials were denied him. After a time the jail doctor saw that the poor journalist was likely to die under this treatment, and had him removed to the hospital, where his food was better and he was told by the authorities that if his paper published any thing objectionable to the Government during his imprisonment, he would be sent back to his old quarters. Unfortunately for him, in spite of the orders he had given his assistants, an article did appear which aroused official anger, and he was returned to the cell, his books and writing materials were taken from him, and also his clean linen and his toilet articles. Herr Fusangel protests against this treatment in the name of humanity, and says that when he was sentenced to two months' imprisonment he was not sentenced to be tortured by cold and coal-smoke, and by a wretched bed and unfit nourishment, nor to be persecuted intellectually by being deprived of the means for employing his time in reading and writing.

THE first locomotive engine operated in Illinois was the "Experiment," built by Crossman & Grovener, of Richman. It commenced running in the autumn of 1838, on the Northern Cross Railroad, which was finished from Naples to Jacksonville. This was the earliest laid railroad track in Illinois, now forming a part of the Wabash It was what was called the flat rail, being a flat bar of iron screwed on to the top of a square bar or rail of wood. The weight of the locomotive was eight and one-half tons. Its speed on the trial trip was two miles in one minute and fifty-eight seconds:—Quincy Whig.

A MAN and woman, of Phœnix, N. Y., decidedly on the down-hill of life—he was sixty and she was sixty-five—could wait no longer to be married and started for the clergyman's house in a sleigh. On the road they met another clergyman, and, with a rare and beautiful enthusiasm, requested him to perform the ceremony on the spot. They stood up in their sleigh, the minister stood up in his, they were pronounced to be man and wife, and a pair of frisky horses with their sleigh-bells furnished the wedding music.

ONE of the best remedies for sunburn, especially when there is a tendency to puffing up of the skin or blistering, is a mixture of lime-water and sweet-oil. Bathe the affected parts frequently, and the heat and soreness will soon be subdued.

To Whom it may Concern:

I take great pleasure in making the following statement: I have been afflicted with a disease of the kidneys for the past two years, and have tried numerous remedies with only partial and temporary relief. Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure was recommended to me, and after taking it the pain and distress left me, and I am to-day feeling strong and well. I am perfectly satisfied that Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure is the medicine needed, and can cheerfully recommend it to others.

☞ KIDNEGEN is highly recommended and unsurpassed for WEAK or FOUL KIDNEYS, DROPSY, BRIGHT'S DISEASE LOSS of ENERGY, NERVOUS DEBILITY, or any OBSTRUCTIONS arising from KIDNEY or BLADDER DISEASES. Also for Yellow Fever, Blood and Kidney Poisoning, in infected malarial sections.

☞ By the distillation of a FOREST LEAF with JUNIPER BERRIES and BARLEY MALT we have discovered KIDNEGEN, which acts specifically on the Kidneys and Urinary Organs, removing injurious deposits formed in the bladder and preventing any straining, smarting sensation, heat or irritation in the membraneous lining of the ducts or water passages. It excites a healthy action in the Kidneys giving them strength, vigor, and restoring these organs to a healthy condition, showing the effects on both the color and easy flow of urine. It can be taken at all times, in all climates and under all circumstances without injury to the system. Unlike any other preparation for Kidney difficulties it has a very pleasant and agreeable taste and flavor. It has been difficult to make a preparation containing positive diuretics properties which will not nauseate, but be acceptable to the stomach. Before taking any Liver medicine try a bottle of KIDNEGEN to CLEANSE THE KIDNEYS from foul matter. Try it and you will always use it as a family medicine. Ladies especially will like it, and Gentlemen will find KIDNEGEN the best Kidney Tonic ever used.

NOTICE.—Each bottle bears the signature of LAWRENCE & MARTIN, also a Proprietary Stamp, which permits KIDNEGEN to ae sold (without license) by druggists, grocers and other persons everywhere.

Put Up in Quart Size Bottles for General and Family Use.

If not found at your druggists or grocers, we will send a bottle prepaid to the nearest express office to you.

—Temple of Honor night.

—The thermometer has taken a little tumble.

—The Cadets meet, to-night, for drill and for business.

—The Guards have another of their merry socials, this evening.

—The Ancient Order United Workmen meet, to-night, at 7:30 o'clock.

—A large number of the young folk joined in a merry coasting party last evening.

—Two vagrants were run in last night, and to-day were sentenced to eight days each in jail.

—The Mite society of Trinity church will meet Monday evening at the residence of Hiram Bump.

—Married men ought not to object to the women wearing long trains, for the longer the train, the longer the dress can be worn.

—The teachers in the public schools have their meeting, to-morrow morning, preparatory to the opening of the schools Monday morning.

—The case of the State vs. Thomas E. Joy, charged with signing Mr. Phillips' name to a letter, without permission, was called up before Justice Nolan yesterday afternoon, and again adjourned until next Monday morning.

—The sale of tickets for Milton Nobles, next Monday night, has commenced lively, and there is the promise of a house full. The play "A Man of the People," is pronounced as equal in every way to "The Phœnix," which was so popular here, and the entertainment promises to be one of the best of the kind, on the boards this season.

—The case of Smith, the alleged embezzling agent of the American Sewing Machine Company, was called before Justice Nolan this morning, but adjourned until next Tuesday, to allow time for a comparison of accounts. The company claims that Smith is behind over $500, while Smith claims that, counting his salary, there is $200 or more due him. Quite a little difference of opinion, evidently.

—There is a gang of young hoodlums who seem to delight in making disturbances at the Opera house in the hallways, before the show begins, and in the gallery while it is in progress, and added to these are a crowd of mischievous boys who quickly join in any scheme set in motion. Last evening some of the gang stood at the door near the old ticket office, and informed the comers that the office was closed, and there was no show. In this way a score of people were sent home again, and there would have been more thus duped, but for the advent of Marshal Hogan, who broke up the jokers. There ought by rights to be a special policeman appointed, to be at the Opera house every evening, and remain through the entertainment. The City Marshal cannot be there all the time, as events may happen on the streets which demand his muscle and mind. Oftentimes an audience is greatly disturbed by the boisterousness of boys in the gallery; and if some one could be regularly employed as a "tithing master," and tap the boys over the head occasionally with a long club, it would add greatly to the satisfaction of the rest of an audience.

—Last evening Baldwin's Brilliants gave another pleasing entertainment at the Opera house, and drew a better house than on the evening previous. Mrs. Baldwin gave a marvelous showing of clairvoyance, reading what various persons had written upon bits of paper, and the contents of which she seemed to have no way of knowing as she was blindfolded and in a trance. She answered all sorts of questions, told the names of those who wrote them, and performed other feats which seemed to border on the supernatural. The other features of the entertainment were likewise interesting. The little boy orator is of himself an attraction worth fully the time and money needed to see the whole entertainment. The Glee Club sing most sweetly. Miss Kingsland does all sort of magical work, which puzzles the shrewdest ones in an audience. The promise to give away a gold watch last night was kept, and A. E. Morse was the lucky captor. A large number of other gifts were distributed also. To-night another entertainment will be given, and another batch of presents given away.

OAK HILL CEMETERY.

Annual Meeting of Stockholders, Election of Trustees and Officers—Showing of the Year.

Last evening, in pursuance with the published call, the stockholders of the Oak Hill Cemetery Association, met at Dr. Barrows' office. Attention was called to the hour of meeting, and it was suggested that a change should be made hereafter so that the meeting could be held in the daytime, which would enable more of the country stockholders to be present. This suggestion was embodied in a resolution, which was adopted, by which the next annual meeting will be called for 10 o'clock in the morning.

The reports of the trustees and of the treasurer were presented and placed on file. From these reports it appeared that there had been received during the year $3,784 30, including $725 in private subscriptions from those willing to aid in the building of water works, $464.36 cash on hand at the expiration of last year, $800 borrowed from the bank, $1,260 for lots sold, $295 for interments, re-interments, etc., and $183 for sodding and grading lots. The expenditures had been $3,724.02, including the $1,487.22 the cost of the water-works, reservoir, windmill, pipes, hydrants, fountain, etc.; $200 paid on the $800 borrowed; $400 for sexton's salary, $971.25 for land purchased of the McKey estate, and the balance for sundry expenses.

This in its total shows the Association to have incurred an indebtedness of about $600, but this will be paid off in the course of a few months by the natural receipts, and no further special improvements will be made until this is done. The past year has been one of much improvement. The water works have been put in running order, and the grounds beautified and kept in fine shape, additional land has been purchased, so that the stockholders are greatly pleased with the judicious expenditures, and the enterprising management of the officials.

The report embraces the names of those who contributed toward the water works, showing that one gave $25; anotner, $20; three $15 each; one $7; 11 gave $10 each; 86 gave $5; 9 gave $3; 2 gave $2.50 each; 13 gave $2, and 30 gave $1, making in all 157 persons who took a personal and monetary interest in the enterprise.

There were during the year 93 interments, of which 67 were from the city, and the rest from other portions of the State and from other States.

The actions of the Trustees for the year were ratified by a formal resolution passed by the stockholders last evening, and willingly so, as all seemed perfectly satisfied with what had been done.

The election of trustees, to fill vacancies caused by expired terms, resulted in the choice of J. B. Carle, James Sutherland, and S. Holdredge, Jr., and adjournment was then taken.

A meeting of the Trustees was then held, at which the old officers were re-elected as follows: President, J. J. R. Pease; Secretary, Dr. L. J. Barrows, Treasurer, J. C. Jenkins.

The Oak Hill cemetery is admitted to be one of the most beautiful country cemeteries in the West, and the wise and yet enterprising manner in which it is being improved, and the careful handling of finances, reflect credit on the officers and trustees.

For the past two years I have been troubled with leucorrhœa and female weakness, which at times has been so great that I could neither eat nor sleep. I wore one of Prof. Guilmette's Kidney Pads and it cured me.

FLORISTS AND FRUITISTS.

Last evening the Rock County Horticultural Society met in Dimock & Hayner's office for their annual meeting. There was not a very large attendance, and the business of the meeting was confined to the election, or rather re-election of officers as follows:

President—F. S. Lawrence.

Vice President—George J. Kellogg.

Secretary—E. B. Heimstreet.

Treasurer—J. B. Whiting.

Executive Committee—First ward, E. G. Fifield; Second ward, A. Hoskins; Third ward; J. B. Whiting; Fourth ward, G. H. Williston; Fifth ward, A. D. Wickham; At large, E. L. Dimock.

The financial condition of the Society was found to be in a satisfactory condition, there being $90 in the treasury, and no bills to pay. During the past year fifteen new members were received, and all the affairs of the Society seemed to be in a healthy, hopeful condition.

F. S. Lawrence and G. J. Kellogg were chosen delegates to attend the annual meeting of the State Horticultural Society, which meets in Madison next month.

CATCHING A SNEAK THIEF.

John J. Sheehan is doing some good, work catching sneak-thieves. About a week ago he nabbed one, and last night he spied another filching a pair of overshoes from in front of Anderson's shoe store on Main street. He followed the fellow across Milwaukee street bridge, when the thief caught the clew to the situation and broke into a run. Sheehan gave hot chase down onto River street and caught him. The fellow tried to hush the matter by offering to settle for the shoes, and went so far as to show where he had thrown them away as he was running. Mr. Sheehan got the shoes and while returning with the thief to the store, met Officer Smith to whom he turned the fellow over. He gave his name as George Davenport, and on his way to the jail offered Smith $10 to let him escape, but Smith wouldn't be seduced, and this morning on being brought into the Police Court Davenport pleaded guilty, and was fined $30 and costs. Being unable to pay he was sent to jail for fifty days.

DOINGS OF THE BOARD.

A Resolution Passed Concerning the Support of the Insane—Other Matters of Interest

As briefly stated in yesterday's Gazette the County Board of Supervisors have taken an important step in regard to the expense attending the caring for the insane. Hitherto the Madison Asylum has yearly forwarded its bill to Rock county, for the care of its insane, charging $1.50 a week for board, and giving a detailed statement whose total footing does not vary much from $3,000 a year. The county has always paid the amount called for, and no more has been said about it. The statutes provide that where an insane person has property, or where there are relatives responsible for his support, the county thorough its District Attorney shall collect of such property or relatives the amount which the county has had to pay. Hitherto there has been no such amounts collected and no attempt to collect, the county paying the whole. Yesterday afternoon Mr. Eldredge introduced a resolution instructing the District Attorney to collect in accordance with the provisions of the statutes, and this called forth a lively discussion. It was stated by different members of the Board that they had been informed by persons having relatives in the Madison Asylum, that they had sent money at different times directly to Madison for the support of their friends, and some of the amounts had never been credited. It was urged that an attempt to collect from those reatives would cause these matters to be looked after closely, and persons willing to contribute for the support of friends could be assured that the money was placed properly, and properly credited. Then there was another class, who were abundantly able to pay, but who never did pay, and it was not fair for other property owners to be taxed to pay bills which the law provided others should pay. It was also urged that some of the insane had property, and one instance was cited in which the patient had about $15,000 worth of property, and yet the county was paying for his support. By attempting to collect it would become known who could pay, and ought to pay, and who could not.

There were some of the Board who differed from these opinions. Some urged that it was hardly fair for a man to be called on to pay $1.50 a week for the board of an insane son or daughter, and then have to pay taxes on his property besides to support others. Some claimed that the asylums were charitable institutions, and that as those who had insane friends were obliged to place them there, they ought not be compelled to pay. It was also claimed that some, who had perhaps enough property to pay the required sum, would find it a heavy burden to do so, and it would cripple them financially.

After considerable discussion, and some amendments the resolution was adopted in the following form:

Resolved, By the Board of Supervisors of Rock County, that the District Attorney be directed by this Board to collect when in his judgment parties are able to pay, as prescribed by the provisions of Section 603 of revised statutes, the respective amount charged to this county for the year 1880, for the support of patients maintained at the hospital for the insane, in all cases, when payment in whole or in part has not been made in accordance with the provisions of the statutes, and to report all facts in regard thereto in each particular case for further action.

The resolution was adopted by 27 to 2, Messrs. Jones and McIntyre alone voting against it.

The Board this morning ordered a clock to be purchased for the Sheriff's office at the jail.

The following appropriations were made for the present year:

Fuel, printing, stationery and gas	$2,500
Support of poor	8,000
Sheriff, for board of prisoners	2,000

Salary of sup't. of poor, C. F. North	150

An order was drawn for the payment for the microphones in the Court House.

This afternoon the committee appointed concerning getting a title abstract for the county, reported in favor of the plan, through the chairman, J. C. Metcalf. The committee recommended using William E. Walton's system, and reported that the cost of the exclusive right to use it, and the necessary books, would be $175, and the cost of making up the abstract, would be not to exceed $3,200 as C. L. Valentine had offered to do the work for that amount, the same to be completed within two years. The report set forth the advantages of having such an abstract owned by the county, instead of private individuals, and recommended that the County Clerk be empowered to buy the necessary books and the right to use them and enter into a contract with C. L. Valentine to have the work done. The report was adopted.

The most sensible remedy, and the only safe, sure and permanent cure for all diseases of the liver, blood and stomach, including billious fevers, fever and ague, dumb ague, jaundice, dyspepsia, &c., is Prof. Guilmette's French Liver Pads, which cures by absorption. Ask your druggist for this noted cure, and take no other, and if he has not got it or will not get it for you, send $1.50 to French Pad Co., Toledo, O., and they will send you one post-paid by return mail.

THE WEATHER.

REPORTED BY PRENTICE & EVENSON, DRUGGISTS.

The thermometer at 6 o'clock last night, stood at 22 degrees above zero; at 1 o'clock, a. m., to-day, at 24 degrees above; at 7 o'clock a. m., at 10 degrees below, and at 1 o'clock p. m., at 3 degrees above. Clear.

In search for suitable Holiday gifts, don't fail to call on Prentice & Evenson, the druggists, opposite the postoffice. They have a very fine lot of Toilet Sets, Cut Glass Bottles, Odor Cases, Handkerchief Extracts and Colognes which they are selling very cheap. Their Rosalne Cologne cut glass bottles makes an elegant present at a very reasonable price.

MERRILY MARRIED.

HOLLISTER—JOHNSON.

EVANSVILLE, Wis., Jan. 6—Married, at the residence of R. W. Johnson, Esq., of this village, and home of the bride, C. A. Hollister, son of R. M. Hollister, of Janesville, and Miss Helen Johnson, daughter of R. W. Johnson, of Evansville. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Mr. Gibb, of Beloit, in the presence of nearly one hundred invited guests. The presents were numerous and many of them were elaborate and costly, and showed the high esteem in which the bride and groom are held by their relatives and friends. Among the presents we find the following with cards and names attached: Chamber set, by the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Johnson; barrel of oranges, E. Durland, Chicago, the most of which were eaten by the guests; silver fruit boat or tray, I. M. Bennett and wife, L. T. Pullen and family, C. F. P. Pullen and wife, Fred Tolls and wife, Mrs. Della Bennett, Miss Nettie Porter and Miss Stella Pentiss; a berry dish, by D. H. Martell, of Chicago; statuary, "We Boys," by Mr. and Mrs. Geo. D. Potter, Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Rowley, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Dow, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Ring, and Miss Alice Ring; a silver tea tray, Mr. and Mrs. L. Spencer, Mr. and Mrs. H. Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. H. Spencer, Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Richardson and Miss Lillian Spencer; silver cake basket, Mr. and Mrs. David E. Stevens; silver pie spoon and cake knife, in satin-lined case, by Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Mygatt, and Mr. and Mrs. Caleb Snashall; silver pickle caster, by Mr. Frank Gibbs, wife and daughter; silver cake basket, by Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Winston, and Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Woodbury; a toilet bottle with silver stand, by Mr. Merriman, Miss McCoy and Miss Mamie Howe; one set of solid silver dessert spoons, by R. M. Hollister and wife, of Janesville, parents of the bridegroom; gold-lined card receiver, Mr. and Mrs. K. F. Randolph, and Miss Emma C. Rowley; silver perfumery casket and jewel case combined—very handsome and unique—Mr. and Mrs. William Stevens, Mr. and Mrs. Almeson Eager, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Dr. Bulson, and Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Owen; silver butter dish, Mr. and Mrs. E. Devereux; solid silver cream pitcher, sugar bowl and call bell, E. J. Friel, of the firm of Cahn Wampold & Co,, Chicago; picture frame on easel, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Wallace; an elegant chair—patent rocker—D. C. Griswold and wife, Miss Eva Janes, and Mr. William Quivey; nice hand-made tidy, Mrs. E. M. S. Hawley; set of solid silver tablespoons, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Johnson, and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. H. H. Johnson; silver berry spoon and case, Senator Burrows and wife, Madison; pair of silver napkin rings, Hugh Jehn, Ogden, Utah territory; cross of cut flowers and fancy ornaments, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Snashall; one set of solid silver tea spoons to be kept in memory of Frankie Johnson; a silver butter knife by H. Austin; a silver butter dish by Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Elwood and Miss Eva Elwood; a toilet set by Mr. and Mrs. Locke Brigham; a pair of silver and cut glass vases, Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Morse; one piece of Roger's statuary—"By Jingo," from S. B. Smith, Janesville; a Seth Thomas alarm clock morocco case, Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Smith, Janesville; an elegant oil painting from C. A. Schappel, Chicago; one dozen linen napkins, Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Smith; Janesville; a gold lined double spoon holder, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Stevens, hand painted white satin fan from Uncle Burton Hollister, of Rutland, Vermont; a cut glass and silver bouquet holder, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Hall and Mrs. Cassia Sheafe; a silver butter knife, cream and sugar spoon, by S. H. Frost and wife; one dozen china fruit plates decorated, form sister May Johnson; one dozen each of silver knives and forks by grandmother Johnson; a chromo and decorated plate by master Harry Hollister; a dozen napkins and table spread by Mr. Andrew Manning, Mr. Chas. Burnam and Mr. A. P. Burnam; a dozen linen towels from J. M. Bostwick, Janesville; a nickle plated clock morocco case, Mr. and Mrs. N. Winston and Mr. and Mrs. F. Winston; a Marsailles bed spread and two bed quilts from Grandma Frost; a picture frame by D. M. Johnson; a panel album from Katie Potter; a silk neck handkerchief, R. M. Bostwick, of Janesville; one dozen napkins from Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Hollister; one album on easel from C. N. Vankirk, Geo. T. Prichard, and R. R. Lee, Janesville; one velvet picture frame by Miss Belle Shurrum; a decorated lamp and easy chair by the bridegroom: and a pot of flowers by Miss May Stevens.

After the ceremony had been performed, which was appropriate and impressive, and the usual salutations and friendly greetings, the company sat down to a sumptuous repast, to which they did full justice. The remainder of the evening was spent in social converse and a good time generally. It is customary, if I remember rightly, on occasions of this kind to say something about the dress and appearance of the bride and groom, and bridesmaid and groomsmen. On this occasion the bride-elect and groom were accompanied by Miss Alice Ring and Miss May Johnson as bridesmaids, and Mr. D. M. Martell and Mr. George Pullen as groomsmen, all of them neatly and tastefully dressed, and each performing his or her part well.

We will open this week $20,000 of New Goods for the winter months of 1881. Our large sales for the past three months have reduced our stock so that we we are able to buy nearly a full assortment in all departments, of the newest and latest styles for the next 90 days. We have no old stock to close out, but buying at this time of year we can sell you new, fresh, stylish goods at 10 per cent. less than former prices on all kinds of Domestics, such as Canton Flannels, Ginghams, Prints, Shirtings, Denims, Tickings, &c., 5 per cent less than any house in the city, and will continue to do so as long as we are in business. Black and Colored Cashmeres we bought last April when those goods were lower than ever known before. Our Black Cashmeres that cost us 90c are now worth in the market 1.07 1.2, so houses buying from day to day have to pay the advance prices in the busy season. We make a specialty of Kid Gloves, never out of a No. or Button in the leading brands of Kid Gloves. We commence the year of 1881 with a complete assortment of all kinds of First Class Dry Goods.
